TO OUR DONORS

With the new year underway, we're experiencing a renewed sense of hope. Hope for widespread vaccinations across our community; the possibility of safely seeing friends and family again; and even a refreshed outlook on our relationships and goals for the year.

As leaders of Providence Mission Hospital Foundation, we are excited to celebrate all that we have accomplished together, even as we envision what is to come. On pages 3-4, you'll find our report on the Foundation's experience and successes in 2020. Your generosity during this extraordinary time has made it all possible.

After all, we have a great deal to celebrate! For instance, this year marks the Golden (50th) Anniversary of the Hospital. The cover showcases the many changes we've seen on campus since Mission's founding in 1971. Since then, our community has worked with hospital leadership and physicians to grow the Mission Viejo Company's initial gift of land into the number one hospital in all of Orange County, according to Newsweek's "World's Best Hospitals" rankings. On page 2, you can learn more about the plans for our annual Gala that will commemorate this exciting anniversary and pay tribute to those who made it possible. We hope you will join us in the celebration!

Speaking of things worth celebrating, you may have noticed we've begun to transition our campus signage to show our unified and diverse family of ministries under Providence. The St. Joseph Health cross and colors, combined with the name Providence, offer a symbol of unity while honoring our strong heritage. Please know that our commitment to providing you and your neighbors with exceptional, compassionate care remains unchanged — and continues to guide us every day.

Thank you, Mission Family, for your continued trust and partnership that gives us much reason to celebrate.

CELEBRATING 50 YEARS OF SACRED MOMENTS

South Orange County, circa 1969.

On a barren hillside on the O'Neill Ranch, a group of forward-thinking, concerned physicians envision the future. They know the rolling hills and wide-open spaces around them will soon be one of the fastest-growing communities in Southern California. They realize the need for accessible, quality medical care to serve the coming population. And they recognize the opportunity to practice medicine as they feel it should be practiced with a hospital built by doctors for doctors, allowing them to do the best job they know how to do.

Eventually, 100 physicians invest in the dream, with land provided by the Mission Viejo Company. Providence Mission Hospital opens on August 11, 1971, with 124 patient beds, 330 employees and a medical staff of 41 physicians providing general acute care, including obstetrics, pediatrics, surgery, intensive care and emergency services. It is the first step toward becoming a regional medical center that will eventually serve the health care needs of the entire south Orange County.

Decades later in 1993, Providence Mission Hospital partners with CHOC Children's to provide pediatric services and in 1994, becomes a member of St. Joseph Health, a nonprofit Catholic health care ministry founded by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Orange.

Mission Hospital
in the early 1970s

Fast forward to 2021: Providence Mission Hospital's Golden Anniversary. Our campus may have grown and changed over the years, but our commitment to our community remains steadfast. We were recently recognized as the top-ranked hospital in all Orange County, according to Newsweek's "World's Best Hospitals" — how far we have come! To celebrate, Providence Mission Hospital will have a 50th Anniversary Celebration and Rededication during our annual Holiday Gala on Saturday, December 4 on the Mission Viejo campus. His Excellency Bishop Kevin Vann will preside over the rededication during the event. For more information, please contact Rachelle Chin, events manager, at Rachelle.Chin@providence.org or 949-365-3893.

As we celebrate the past, we are looking forward to developing how Providence Mission Hospital will serve the community in the years ahead.

When our Mission Viejo Company provided the land for the hospital, the five of us owners envisioned a world-class care facility that would become an important and beloved member of our community. Five decades later, we proudly celebrate that Providence Mission Hospital is all that and more. All of us at Rancho Mission Viejo — and especially Melinda and I — look forward to how Providence Mission Hospital continues to care for our south Orange County community and commit our support of all goals and dreams of the next 50 years!

— Tony Moiso,
Rancho Mission Viejo CEO

These included the creation of arguably the broadest capability of robotic surgery in any hospital in Orange County. We are grateful for the community's support that made these enhancements possible, so that we can deliver the best care to our patients."

PROVIDENCE UNIFIED

New look, same compassionate care

In February 2021, we began to transition signage on our campuses to a new brand. The new brand was created to unify our diverse family of ministries. The St. Joseph Health cross and colors, combined with the name Providence, represent a symbol of unity while celebrating our strong heritage.

The word “providence” in various spiritual traditions means God’s compassionate care. Although we are now Providence Mission Hospital, it does not represent any change in ownership or management locally, but simply a step toward brand unification across the system — one of the largest health networks in the country. We remain committed to providing the same compassionate, high-quality care our community deserves.

A unified brand will make it easier for our community to recognize which ministries and partners are part of our comprehensive network of care. It will tie our clinical work together and assist us in recruiting the biggest hearts and best minds into our organization. Most importantly, this new brand will allow us to be more effective advocates for value-based health care reform and will strengthen our voice for those who are poor and vulnerable.

AFFIRMING THE DIGNITY OF LIFE

The new Walter A. Craig Center for Palliative Care supports those living with serious or life-limiting illnesses

Walter A. Craig, known to family and friends simply as Craig, was born in Manhattan and raised in California. Everyone who knew Craig would agree he was a special soul, one of the most compassionate and loving individuals you could hope to meet. When he passed away, he had touched countless lives and was cherished by many.

Craig was raised Jewish with many Christian influences. As a young man, he adopted the understanding and belief that religious commitment was very personal, and no one should judge another’s spiritual journey. Craig believed our goal in life should be to show kindness and inclusion to all. In fact, for more than 40 years, Craig wore a Saint Christopher necklace to remind himself that we all need to be lifted up, we all need to feel safe and we all need support and compassion. His outlook on life was to accept others for who they are and, when someone is hurting or scared, to carry them.

To celebrate Craig’s life, his family chose to make a landmark gift to Providence Mission Hospital to establish the Walter A. Craig Center for Palliative Care. They wanted to recognize and advance the exceptional care and compassion that internist Reza Dehkordi, MD, had shown Craig, his family and his many loved ones. “The interventions for Craig’s health care and the respect and honor Dr. Dehkordi showed for his wishes was inspiring,” said Craig’s sister Diane.

“Beyond hospice, which seeks to alleviate pain and suffering toward the end of one’s life, palliative care offers significant improvements to patients’ quality of life as they continue to seek treatment for a serious health condition,” shared Dr. Dehkordi.

with his sister, Diane

“We want awareness of the comfort palliative care can provide to spread throughout the Hospital staff and our community,” said Diane. The family and Hospital’s aspiration is to create a model program for palliative care and ensure that this type of care is available to all patients and families who desire it.

Our Foundation is seeking to raise matching funds to advance this important work even further. To learn more and support this new center, please contact John Miller, chief philanthropy officer, at 949-364-7701 or john.miller3@providence.org.

“Craig would have appreciated this and wanted those who are hurting or feeling hopeless to be lifted up,” shared Diane. “He would have liked to relieve fear and confusion over medical treatments and options, and wanted patients’ needs, desires and wishes to be fulfilled. Perhaps most important, Craig would want the Hospital to be a beacon of hope, no matter the patient’s ability to pay, their ethnicity, religion or orientation. That’s who he was and it was largely a result of his empathic outlook and remarkable life.”

CAMINO HEALTH CENTER TRANSITION

Camino Health Center has created its first development department under the leadership of development director Hilary Zappin. Camino will now plan and carry out its own fundraising efforts, including the leadership of Camino's auxiliary and special events.

Providence Mission Hospital Foundation supports and applauds this major step forward in Camino's growth and development, which we believe will serve Camino and our south Orange County community well. While Camino will now manage its fundraising activities directly, be assured that Providence Mission Hospital will continue to partner with Camino as we work together to provide medical care, behavioral health services, dental care and other health services to low income and vulnerable individuals and families.

As we celebrate this next chapter, we thank the Camino auxiliary for being part of this important partnership.

For questions or to support Camino, please contact Hilary at hzappin@caminohc.org, 949-240-2030 ext. 186 or caminohealthcenter.org/donate.

INSPIRING OTHERS WITH A LIFE WELL LIVED

Giving back is a wonderful way to express gratitude for life's blessings, and Susie and Rich Gordinier have many reasons to be thankful. They have decades of warm memories together, a loving family and great friends, and Rich has achieved remarkable professional success.

Rich was born in New Jersey. Susie was born in Los Angeles but her family moved to the east coast. She and Rich met during their senior year in college. Rich graduated from Princeton University. Susie graduated from Syracuse University. They were married in 1964. They moved to Baltimore, where Rich worked for Procter and Gamble and Susie was a speech therapist for the Baltimore City School System and also had a weekly speech program on TV.

While at P&G, Rich was transferred to the Charmin Paper Division and the family moved to Green Bay, WI, Cheboygan, MI, and then Clarks Summit, PA. Charmin introduced Pampers from the Pennsylvania factory that Rich helped open. Their oldest son was born while they were in Pennsylvania.

Clairol recruited Rich in the late 1960s and the family moved to Fairfield, CT, where their second and third children were born. In late 1972, Rich was recruited by Estee Lauder to be Senior VP of Operations. The family moved again to Oyster Bay, Long Island.

In 1978, after a 28-inch snowfall, recruiters convinced Rich and family to move to California, where he became president of the International Division of Max Factor. The family relocated to San Marino, CA. While living there they became very involved in their children's activities and various charitable groups, and remained there for 32 years.

After Max Factor, Rich spent a number of years running privately held businesses in consumer goods products.

When he retired, the Gordiniers remodeled their Laguna Beach summer home and moved full-time to Laguna in 2008. He continues to serve on various boards and finds the Providence Mission Hospital Foundation Board, which he joined five years ago, to be the most rewarding. "We've thoroughly enjoyed getting to know the board, medical staff and management of the hospital." Rich has also delighted in introducing the hospital to his friends, who in turn have introduced the hospital to their friends – and lists it as one of his proudest accomplishments. Susie has served on the Laguna Art Museum board and was co-chair of the Centennial Celebration committee. She is active in several art groups. As an artist, she has been in many exhibits in Pasadena and Laguna.

Rich hopes to be known as a leader, someone who inspires others to give back. He is especially proud of the legacies he has helped create. "I'm proud to be helping organizations such as the Foundation be in a stronger position today and into the foreseeable future."

Susie and Rich have three grown children and nine grandchildren. They are thrilled to have their second COVID shot so they can visit their family again!

BOB AND PENNY YOUNG GIVE BACK IN MULTIPLE WAYS

Gift annuity offers advantages

Bob and Penny Young have both experienced outstanding patient care at Providence Mission Hospital several times. "In 1971, our third child was born at South Coast Medical Center, now Providence Mission Hospital, Laguna Beach," recalled Bob.

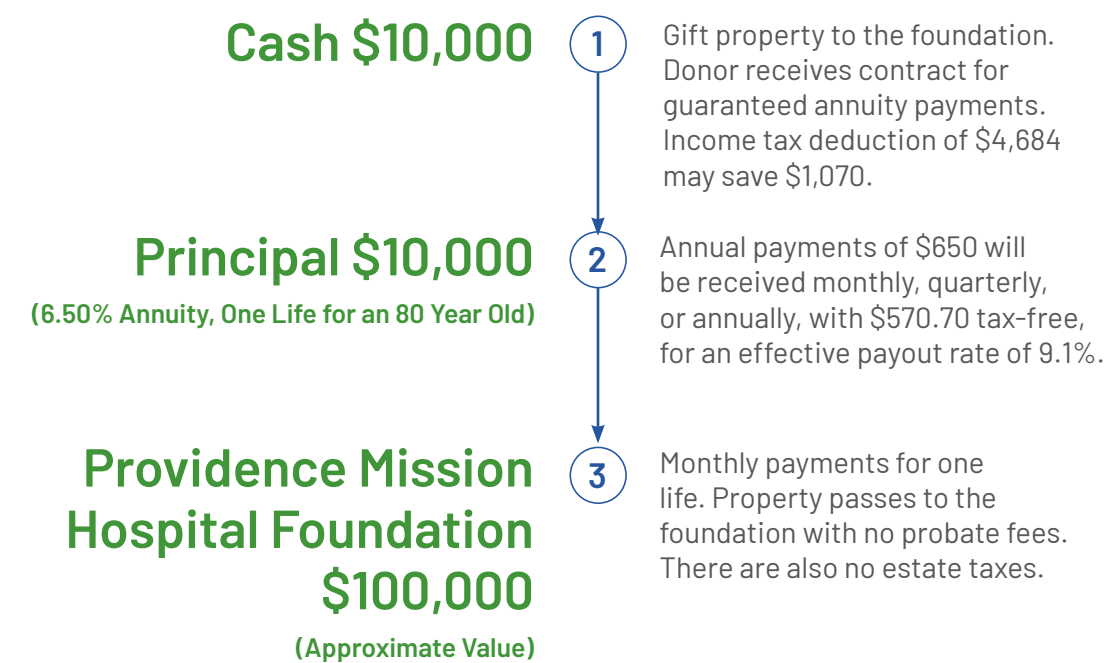

Since then, the couple has chosen to support Providence Mission Hospital in a variety of ways. "I have volunteered with the Hospital Auxiliary since 2008 – in the Spiritual Care Department, at the ER help desk and in the Risk Management Department," Bob said. "Then, as day manager shuttle driver, assisting in the Foundation office and finally heading up the executive leadership team for the Auxiliary."

Penny, also a member of the Auxiliary, has volunteered in the Oncology Unit and is currently involved with the Cardiac Telemetry Unit.

"As you can see, our family is very involved and devoted to Providence Mission Hospital," said Bob. "Not just because we love volunteering, but also because we know firsthand the excellent care one receives as a patient. It reflects from the top. The Hospital is blessed to have excellent leadership."

Bob and Penny have not only given of their time but also have generously given back to Providence Mission Hospital via two charitable gift annuities to support the hospital that means so much to them. "The Hospital is one of the most worthwhile institutions in which to invest," shared Bob. "We were happy to be able to help in this way."

CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITY

Rates vary by age. Contact Jim Frey, director of estate and gift planning, for a personalized illustration based upon your age and prospective gift amount. There is no cost or obligation. This educational illustration is not professional tax or legal advice; consult a tax advisor about your specific situation.

Giving through a gift annuity

Gift annuities are popular because they give you cash back at attractive, fixed rates for life. Gift annuities are easy to understand, easy to fund and easy to enjoy. You make a gift to the Foundation of cash or other assets such as stock or real estate. You receive an immediate charitable tax deduction for the gift and avoid capital gains tax if applicable. We will then make payments to you or you and your designated beneficiary for life. Each payment will be fixed, and the amount of each payment will depend on the age of the donor or donors when the gift is created. After all payments have been made, the remaining portion of your gift goes to support our mission. It is possible to receive an even higher annuity payment by making the gift now and deferring to receive annuity payments later in life, such as when you retire.

For more information about the charitable gift annuity strategy, please contact Jim Frey, director of estate and gift planning, at James.Frey@providence.org or 949-364-4848.

ROBERT GOLDBERG, MD

For pulmonary and critical care specialist,
Mission feels like family

Robert Goldberg, MD, knew he had a passion for science and medicine early on. As a high school student in San Diego, he had an opportunity for a six-week internship with a professional of his choosing. He chose to shadow his best friend’s father, cardiac surgeon Leland Housman, MD.

“He immediately took me to a locker room, threw scrubs on me, then took me to an OR,” recalled Dr. Goldberg. “And within a half hour, he had the patient’s chest open and was performing heart surgery in front of me. That just sealed the deal.”

Initially, Dr. Goldberg had plans to work in cardiology like his mentor. But during his residency at Cedars-Sinai, he discovered a new passion. “I realized I loved critical care,” he said. “I loved the complexity, the procedures, taking the most ill patients and doing everything I can.”

In the spring of 2009, Dr. Goldberg was introduced to the team that would become his partners at Providence Mission Hospital. It was then that he realized just how special his new workplace was.

PHYSICIAN PROFILE

“We’re a big hospital with a small hospital feel,” remarked Dr. Goldberg. “We’re a big family. The support staff, the nurses, the respiratory therapists – everyone we work with is accomplished and phenomenal.”

Dr. Goldberg’s involvement with Providence Mission Hospital Foundation began with his enthusiastic participation in the annual golf tournament; he has served on the tournament’s committee for the past five years. (“It’s a good excuse to play golf,” he joked.) He has also served as a member of the Board for three years.

“Joining the Board really reinforced for me how strong the Providence Mission Hospital community is – not just the people that work here, but also all the people who support it,” he reflected.

Dr. Goldberg has been instrumental in helping the Foundation raise funds to acquire a bronchoscopy robot, technology that will dramatically advance our ability to diagnose and treat lung cancers.

Passion for the Hospital community is a family affair for Dr. Goldberg, his wife Elise and three children. “When my kids were younger, they used to say I was the king of the Hospital,” he said with a laugh. More recently, Elise coordinated and delivered more than 3,000 meals to caregivers treating COVID-19 at the Hospital and across Orange County.

With his family by his side, Dr. Goldberg is proud to advance his efforts to make Providence Mission Hospital one of the best health care facilities in the country. “I love it here,” he smiled. “And if I have my choice, I’m never going to leave.”

Joining the Board really reinforced for me how strong the Providence Mission Hospital community is.

– Robert Goldberg, MD

DONOR SPOTLIGHT ALEXA & BRANDON BIEGENZAHN

Alexa and Brandon Biegenzahn have been married since July 2015 and reside in Coto de Caza with their two adorable sons Bowen (3) and Beckett (2). Both of their boys were delivered at Providence Mission Hospital. Brandon is the president of McDermott + Bull, a retained executive search firm in Irvine.

After their son Bowen was born, he was cared for in the NICU. "We received incredible, first-class care while there, and I had to find a way to serve the hospital," shared Brandon. So Brandon joined the Providence Mission Hospital Foundation Board in 2019 and serves as chair of the Corporate Partners Committee.

The Biegenzahns decided to become Philanthropist Circle donors out of a desire to give back to the community that has given them so much. "Providence Mission is the only philanthropic organization I know of which has the ability to serve every single member of our south Orange County community," said Brandon. "There will always be such fond memories of the life-defining moments that happened with our family at Providence Mission. I will forever be indebted to Providence Mission Hospital and the incredible people who make up the Mission family."
